

CONTROVERSY WITH JAPAN ASSUMING GRAVE ASPECT Federal Government Will Not Interfere With California Legislature Until Bill Has Been Finally Passed

WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Wilson kept the situation with the Japanese government over the land legislation. He read the dispatches from Tokyo, feeling the popular feeling against the Japanese and the pending measures as well as a knowledge of the situation in California. The president told his cabinet that the federal government of necessity must refrain from interference with California while in the process of legislation and could not make its attitude known to inquiring nations until the bills were passed. He added, however, that if any impression had been circulated here that the administration here had become indifferent to the developments in California, such a view was unjustified and that the department was in the measure should be withheld until they were finally framed and passed.

Is Keeping in Touch.
In the meantime, the president declared that every effort was being made to keep in communication with the California legislature. It is unlikely that the president will communicate his views directly with the legislature, but he is taking every step that will interfere with the legislative process, but he is taking every step that will interfere with the legislative process, but he is taking every step that will interfere with the legislative process.

Protests From Italy.
Diplomatic circles here are alert to the situation and some of the more prominent embassies and legations have been ordered to keep their governments advised of every action. Protests from Italy, which it is believed might be followed by more from other nations, as to the restriction of aliens, excited much comment among the diplomats but action was most frequently drawn to the existing alliance between Japan and the great powers which might be affected in case of a breach between Japan and the United States.

Some of the diplomats suggested that it was possible the present Japanese cabinet might be swept from power through the present agitation and in the hope of pleasing popular opinion a new administration might issue a more emphatic protest or ultimatum to the Washington government.

The White House officials declare that relations with the Japanese government through the ambassador have been of the most friendly and cordial kind and that the peculiarities of the situation with its constitutional embarrassments are fully understood.

Law as Applied to Japan.
Because of the limitation from Tokyo that along with a demand for naturalization rights for Japanese would come a liberal application to Japan of what is known as the "law relating to foreigners right of ownership of land," the text of that law is attracting much attention here. Its application heretofore has been very lax and there are large holdings of land by foreigners, including Americans, in many of the places prohibited to them. The law says:

"Article 1.—Foreigners domiciled or resident in Japan and foreign juridical persons registered therein shall enjoy the right of ownership in land, provided always that in the countries to which they belong such rights are extended to Japanese subjects and Japanese juridical persons; and provided further, in case of foreign juridical persons, that they shall obtain permission from the minister of

ENDS FIVE-YEAR CAMPAIGN Considered Partial Victory for the Administration, Session About Over

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Mrs. William Cumming Story, head of the conservative faction, late today was elected president-general of the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, defeating Mrs. John Miller Horton of Buffalo, the administration candidate, on the third ballot. The vote stood Mrs. Story, 600; Mrs. Horton, 449.

Mrs. Story, vice president-general also was elected to complete the completion of new general officers. The result of the third ballot was announced about 7:30 o'clock and the successful candidate was escorted to the platform.

MRS. WILLIAM CUMMING STORY
New President-General of the Daughters of the American Revolution

The platform. She was greeted by Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, retiring president-general, and began her speech. She made a plea for harmony and urged all the new general officers to do their utmost to bring peace between the factions that have waged an almost continuous warfare for the last five years.

Before closing her remarks, Mrs. Story introduced Mrs. Charles B. Bryan, who withdrew as a contestant today before the third ballot was begun. The election resulted in a partial victory for the old administration, in that more than half the general officers and 11 of the new vice presidents-general are known as supporters of Mrs. Scott.

The election of Mrs. Story ends a five-year campaign. She was defeated by Mrs. Scott in the last two elections. Mrs. Scott was elected honorary president-general, an honor held only by five former president officers of the society.

When Mrs. William Cumming Story, the newly elected president-general, made her appearance upon the stage at tonight's meeting, she was given a tremendous ovation. In a brief address Mrs. Story expressed gratification upon her election, and promised to carry out the high ideals of the organization.

With the election over, in which the interest of the Daughters largely centered, many of them left for their homes tonight.

State of Sonora Assesses Foreign Corporations to Raise Funds

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Inquiries at the White House today concerning the exact relations of the United States with the Mexican government in Mexico at the present time revealed the fact that no messages of important communications had been transmitted to the Mexican administration since President Wilson was inaugurated.

Ambassador Wilson has been in correspondence with the state department and has been given various suggestions concerning the policy of the new administration here, but it was explained at the White House that the Washington government has treated the Huertan administration as a de facto government. No recognition was given of Huertan as the policy toward recognizing the new regime in Mexico. It was denied that reports depicting Great Britain and Russia had recognized the Huertan government had caused any ill feeling here.

Levy Tribute on Foreigners.
DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 18.—Mining companies in Sonora were notified today that the state legislature has passed a bill imposing a heavy tax on all foreign corporations to be paid in advance to meet any costs of litigation opposition to the national government. Governor Pineda today signed the bill.

Corporations or companies in the border state must take the form of the virtual tax to allow the issuing of bonds to the amount of $100,000. Cash invested in the extensive mining and smelting operations must subscribe an amount equaling both the state and the federal tax, paying the double tax for two years in advance to avoid immediate funds to the state. Since practically the entire state is in rebellion, the former federal taxes would be eliminated by the new state government. The bonds will draw a 5 per cent interest.

Elect President July 27.
MEXICO CITY, April 18.—Working to the opposition in the chamber of deputies to the naming of a date for the holding of elections for president, a bill was introduced in congress setting July 27 as the date and providing for the direct vote of the people in choosing a chief executive.

Contreras Attacks Durango.
MEXICO CITY, April 18.—Mexico Contreras began his attack today on the town of Durango. A private message sent from a town near Durango said the government forces there numbered about 800.

That the rebels were seven miles from Durango and that the consuls had protested against a bombardment of the city was the information conveyed to the government today by members of the diplomatic corps. It is said that there are about 1,000 rebels in Durango.

U. S. QUESTIONS RIGHT OF DR. FRIEDMANN TO CHARGE FOR TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The right of Dr. F. F. Friedmann to treat for pay patients, with the remedy which he claims is a cure for tuberculosis is being investigated by the director of the treasury at the direction of Secretary McAdoo to determine whether the federal public health laws are being violated.

The act of July 1, 1902, provides that no person shall send, carry or bring for sale, barter or exchange from any state, territory or the District of Columbia into any state, territory or the District of Columbia or from any foreign country into the United States or from the United States into any foreign country any virus, therapeutic serum, toxin or antitoxin or analogous products applicable to the prevention and cure of the diseases of man unless such product has been propagated and prepared at an establishment holding an unexpired and unrevoked license issued by the secretary of the treasury.

The penalty for violation of this section is a fine not exceeding $500 or a maximum imprisonment of one year, or both.

Officials of the treasury are reluctant regarding the situation. They appreciate it is said, that if Dr. Friedmann has a cure for tuberculosis it is the discovery of the age and the United States government will quickly recognize it when assured of its efficacy.

BRYAN AND CLARK BURY THE HATCHET Attend Private Luncheon in Washington and Forget Old Differences

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Speaker Champ Clark and Secretary Wm. J. Bryan met at private luncheon here today, shook hands and issued public statements declaring they had buried the hatchet and put the personalities of the Baltimore convention with the Byrones. The luncheon was arranged by Theodore A. Hill of California, temporary chairman of the Denver convention in 1908 and chairman of the California delegation supporting Speaker Clark at Baltimore, and was given by Frank Bennett, editor of the Washington Post. Intense interest was aroused in political circles over the reconciliation of the two antagonists whose differences became acute as a result of events at the Baltimore convention.

Secretary Bryan's prepared statement issued tonight is as follows:

"My meeting with Mr. Clark has served to clear up a misunderstanding as to my exact position toward him at the Baltimore convention. I have tried to make it clear to Mr. Clark that I have always regarded and do now regard him as a good, clean progressive Democrat. If my language at Baltimore created any impression that I was charging Mr. Clark with being in sympathy with any of the reactionary forces I am glad of the opportunity to correct any such misimpression of my words or acts for I did not intend to reflect either upon personal or political integrity of the speaker. It is his earnest conviction that there may be cordial cooperation between the state department and the speaker in carrying out the policies of the administration."

Clark Still Bitter?
Here is Speaker Clark's statement:

"It is beyond the power of Colonel Bryan or anyone else to correct the injustice that was done to me at Baltimore. The loss of the presidential nomination was a small thing as compared to the injury done to my reputation in the eyes of the world. But now that Colonel Bryan in his public statement has done what he should have done, I have no more to say. I am glad that we can all the better cooperate for the good of the administration. I can only repeat what I have publicly declared time and time again: that all personal or selfish considerations must give way to the duty that all Democrats owe to our party and to our country."

Those who sat at the table with the others already mentioned and saw the disappearance of what many political sages thought the most embarrassing situation confronting President Wilson's administration were:

Those at the Table.
Vice President Marshall, Secretary Lane, Senators Kern and O'Gorman, Representative Crisp, Secretary Tumulty, Assistant Secretary Osborn and Malone of the state department, Thomas F. Logan and L. L. James.

Those in charge of the affair, said Speaker Clark and Secretary Bryan exchanged jokes and had a good time. The statements were given out through Mr. Bennett.

So far as it is known it is the first time the men have met since before the Baltimore convention.

Speaker Clark's friends have always said Mr. Bryan revived his nomination and that it was through Mr. Bryan's activity and influence that the convention contrary to custom refused to give the speaker the necessary two-thirds vote after it several times had given to him a majority.

Strong statements of a somewhat personal nature were also issued by Mr. Bryan and Mr. Clark at the time. The reconciliation was looked on in political circles as the most significant political development of the administration so far.

POPE SOON WILL BE OUT DANGER WILL PASS CRISIS IN TWO DAYS MORE

Able to Take Interest in Pontifical Affairs; Temperatures Down to 97.2

ROME, April 18.—Consulting nurse emanating from the Vatican tonight stated that Pope Pius had passed three days without fever, that his general condition was progressing favorably, and that if these conditions continued for two days more his illness would be considered convalescent and that the bulletins of the physicians would be discontinued.

Although this information came from the physicians in attendance upon Pope Pius and was confirmed by Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, it did not reassure persons of pessimistic tendencies from impending ailments for the pontiff. Tonight they declared he was suffering from patchy pneumonia and acute consumption.

When Dr. Amiel visited the pope shortly before midnight, he found his temperature 97.2. He said the condition of the patient was satisfactory and that he was finding great relief from his cough by taking a soothing liquor of ammonia flavored with anise seed. After Dr. Amiel's visit Pope Pius slept. His breathing was audible in the room on account of his catarrh.

Prof. Ettore Marchisava, the pope's physician, was asked by the Associated Press tonight concerning the condition of his patient. In writing he replied:

"The holy father has suffered from influenza with a slight attraction of the trachea and larger bronchial tubes. Broncho-pneumonia never has even been suspected. I have never doubted for his recovery sooner or later. His general condition always has been of the best. His heart and pulse are strong and normal and the seasonal nervous system intact."

"It must be added, however, that although all Professor Marchisava says in his statement may be perfectly true, another affection exists which is not in an acute stage now, but always is liable to recur. This is acute kidney."

Takes Interest in Affairs.
The better condition of the pope is shown by his interest in his affairs. He insisted today on conveying his instructions to Cardinal Ferrata, who will leave tomorrow for Malta to preside at the Eucharistic congress. He also desired to know what arrangements had been made concerning the pontifical mass which he was to celebrate in St. Peter's on Pentecost Sunday, three weeks away. This day is intended to be a great one in the festivities of the constant jubilee and it was with great difficulty that he was induced to postpone the ceremony to November, when the end of the jubilee will take place.

DENVER CONGRATULATED ON TREATMENT OF I.W.W.'S.

DENVER, April 18.—Denver Felix N. Vail received several telegrams from citizens of San Diego, Chicago and other cities today, carrying congratulations and offers of assistance in his efforts to deal with the "uninvited guests" belonging to the Industrial Workers of the World. The prisoners, after being kept on bread and water the first day of their confinement, are now receiving the regular jail menu. No attempt at insubordination was made today.

Rail today prevented the police chief from carrying out his plan of putting the strikers and building sidewalks, but he said tonight that the plan would be put into execution as soon as the weather cleared.

MOTTEN AND SMILEY WANT ALL ATHLETICS ABOLISHED Martin Reported Safe in Europe

BOULDER, April 18.—A resolution urging the people of the state to demand abolition of all interscholastic athletics was adopted here tonight as a compromise measure after an all-day session of the Colorado High School and College conference in session today with more than 200 prominent educators present.

The sentiment of forbidding conference was against baseball, football, basketball and all other athletic games. The fight against athletics was led by Superintendent Smiley of Denver and he was ardently supported by Prof. Roger H. Motten of Colorado college, Colorado Springs. The committee, in whose hands plans for the elimination of high school athletics had been placed, became so divided before the close of today's session that the compromise measure was substituted in place of one directly abolishing athletics.

The conference members organized the Interscholastic Athletic Union of Colorado for the purpose of giving high school facilities control of athletics, with the ultimate purpose of determining upon some concerted plan which will be used in complete elimination of high school athletics.

FEW CHANGES AGREED UPON Efforts to Modify Income Tax Bill Fail on Every Motion

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The tariff revision bill, which made rapid progress today in the Democratic caucus of the house, was considered also by a conference of the Republican representatives, who agreed to propose amendments and Democratic leader Underwood predicted tonight that the bill would be brought up in the house next Wednesday.

In the Democratic caucus the ways and means committee's amendments were satisfied at every point in a series of fights over proposed amendments in the income tax, the only important change being the acquiescence of the committee to strengthen the provision exempting life insurance policies. The $4,000 exemption and graduated scheme of income taxation running up to 4 per cent on $100,000 or more was retained intact.

The House Republicans in an open conference, endorsed the proposed amendment to the bill that would provide for a tariff commission, changed so as to require the commission to report annually, and deferred until Monday action on a proposition to introduce as a Republican amendment, the Payne-Hill wool bill that was offered two years ago.

Democrats Change Bill.
Meaning the Democrats of the ways and means committee met and agreed upon a number of minor changes in their bill which would be introduced tomorrow to correct defects disclosed in the caucus proceedings.

The Democrats have been bombarded with inquiries regarding a clause of the income tax provision intended to exempt life insurance policies.

To avoid complications the caucus changed the language as to exempt life insurance policies, provided the proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the person insured shall not be included as incomes.

Would Change Income Tax.
Representative Sherer of Kentucky proposed to reduce the income tax exemption from $4,000 to $2,000 and to make income of more than $400,000 pay a 5 per cent surtax on the amount that the bill made too small and sorry of the people subject to such tax. Representative Hobson of Alabama wanted to make the minimum $2,000, with a rate of one-half of one per cent between $2,000 and $5,000 and a 4 per cent surtax on incomes between $5,000 and $10,000. Representative Fisher of Massachusetts proposed $3,000 as the minimum. All these amendments were voted down.

The Republican caucus opened with a lively fight over the general tariff policy in prospect.

Representative Moore of Pennsylvania and Representative Rodden of Michigan, a minority of the Republican caucus, were on hand with a resolution which would prevent the Republicans taking any constructive steps in the making of the tariff.

NEW MEX.CO MARSHAL TURNS IN COMMISSION

SANTA FE, N. M., April 18.—It was announced here officially today that United States Marshal Secundino Romero had forwarded his resignation to the president, following a request from Attorney General McReynolds. Marshal Romero consented to turn in his commission only after he had been notified that no charges against him prompted the request. The appointment of his successor is expected within a few days, and it is said that A. H. Hudspeeth of White Oaks, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, will be named for the post. The retiring marshal had served about a year.

REQUIRES 2 MORE YEARS TO COMPLETE WATER CASE

LA JUNTA, April 18.—Two more years will be required to finish taking evidence in connection with the Colorado-Kansas water suit which already has cost the state approximately $50,000, according to an announcement made today at the meeting of the Arkansas Valley Water Users association in this city. In order to further protect the Colorado water users, the association levied an assessment which is expected to add about $10,000 a year to the water defense fund. The association is composed of members who use water from the 15 ditches which are the subject of litigation. The territory involved extends from Rocky Ford, Colo., to Hartland, Kan., and in that district farms are irrigated from 15 ditches.

After reports and resolutions the association elected the following officers: M. Hall, Rocky Ford, president; C. H. McFarlane, Pueblo, vice president; J. P. Craighead, La Junta, secretary.

Solon and Banker Meet in Park; Ask "Man Up Tree" What Happened

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Representative Sims of Tennessee and Charles C. Weaver, a local banker and capitalist, met today at Andrew Jackson's monument in Lafayette square, just across Pennsylvania avenue from the White house. It was the first meeting since Mrs. Sims, on the floor of the house, had said some peevish things about Mr. Glover's connection with real estate operations here, in which the government had to do with acquiring more land for Rock Creek park.

It was also the first time since Mr. Glover, before a congressional committee, had said some things about Mr. Sims.

The preliminaries, so far as is known, were without witnesses, but those who arrived shortly after declared that Mr. Sims told Mr. Glover he considered he had done his duty, and that Mr. Glover replied it was his intention to proceed to do his. What happened before the peace makers got between is shrouded in some vagueness. However, Mr. Sims later proceeded to the capitol and Mr. Glover proceeded to his bank.

Mike Mullins of the Washington park department, who was at work with a pruning hook, declined to give the views of a "man up a tree."

Mr. Sims afterwards declared the affair a closed incident.

IDENTITY OF MILITANT FIREBUGS ESTABLISHED

LONDON, April 18.—The two women suspected of setting fire to Lady Phillis Brady and Millicent Dean, who were sentenced on April 12 to six weeks' imprisonment each for being found in possession of large quantities of inflammable materials.

SUFFRAGETTES TAKE CHARGE MONUMENT IN LONDON; DEFY POLICE

LONDON, April 18.—Two enterprising suffragettes this morning took possession of "the monument" which stands near the northern approach to London bridge and commemorates the great fire which destroyed the city of London in 1666. Ascending to the top-most balcony they displayed two flags and an immense banner colors on each side of which was written in white letters on a black background, "victory or death."

Having securely fastened the flags to the girders surrounding the balcony, the women satlocked themselves inside the tower, preventing the police from ascending the winding staircase of 345 steps leading to the top. They took up their positions on a balcony and showered suffrage literature among the crowds which gathered below. For a long time the traffic was suspended in one of the busiest districts of London.

The suffragettes maintained their position on the monument for more than an hour. While they were "holding the fort" a heavy missile thrown from the top of the monument narrowly missed injuring a number of spectators.

The police eventually had to secure the services of a locksmith, who forced the door at the bottom of the shaft. When the police appeared in the street escorting the women who had defied them so long the spectators became so threatening in their attitude that the constables were compelled to take their prisoners back into the monument until reinforcements arrived.

A force of more than 100 policemen were required to protect the women from the angry crowd. Both the suffragettes were stylishly dressed and appeared little concerned by the excitement they had raised. They were released a short time after they reached the police station.

Two militant suffragettes now in prison have been identified as the two women who were seen in the vicinity of the mansion of Lady Amy White when it was burned to the ground on March 20.

"General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, the militant suffrage leader, and George Lansbury, a former Socialist member of parliament, appeared at Bow street police court today to answer summonses under the statute of Edward III. charging them with inciting to crime and misdemeanor. They were remanded until April 26 on promising not to participate in any meetings in the interval.

Wife and Fake Officer Would Kidnap Husband to Foil Divorce Plans

PUEBLO, April 18.—Awaiting a hearing on his divorce petition which he prays for annulment of his marriage because of his intoxication, at the time of the ceremony, Frank Kesmodel, a wealthy young man of a Boston family, was the victim today of what the police believe to be an attempt at kidnapping.

Kesmodel was in his attorney's office when a person declaring himself to be a United States marshal entered and placed Kesmodel under arrest. The stranger was accompanied by Mrs. Kesmodel, and police declare the warrant was a forgery.

The alleged imposter and Mrs. Kesmodel had purchased tickets for a town in Kansas and were in the act of boarding the train when police authorities interfered and arrested Kesmodel on a technical charge, at the request of his attorney, who feared some irregularity in his client's arrest.

Immediately upon the appearance of the police the man who claimed to have been a federal officer disappeared.

The attorney and officers declared the so-called federal arrest was merely an attempt to foil Kesmodel out of the jurisdiction of Colorado courts so his divorce case would be lost by default.

He was married in Colorado Springs last fall.

A LETTER FROM C. E. THOMAS

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 18, 1913

It is impossible for me to communicate with or personally thank all those who supported me in the recent election, hence my adoption of this means of expressing my appreciation of their efforts. As this is the first time I have taken an active part in politics, the campaign has been a revelation, replete with difficulties and surprises, but nothing has pleased me so much as the loyal and enthusiastic support which has been accorded, not only by my personal friends, but by those strangers who were animated only by their interest and faith in me.

Debits which represent only dollars and cents have no embarrassment, but I confess my inability to even suggest, far less express, the debt of gratitude which I owe to those who actively and loyally supported me, and I wish to assure them that their disappointment is my greatest regret.

I trust that my conduct during the campaign entitles me to the continuance of their friendship and good will.

BANKER FOUND GUILTY ACCEPTING DEPOSITS WHEN BANK INSOLVENT

BELLINGHAM, Wash., April 18.—Jacob Furth, chairman of the board of directors of the Seattle National bank, who was charged with aiding and abetting William E. Schrieker, former president of the La Conner private state bank, in accepting deposits, knowing the bank to be insolvent, was found guilty today by a jury in the superior court here. A motion for a new trial was made.

Jacob Furth, as the principal banker and financier of Seattle and vicinity, and head of the Boston firm of Stone & Webster's enterprises in Washington, is well known in eastern financial circles.

The Seattle National bank is next to the largest in the Pacific northwest. He also is president of the First National bank of Snohomish, Wash., the Seattle Electric company, the Puget Sound Electric company, the Bank of Commerce of Anacortes, Wash., and the Chicago Land & Stock company, and a director in many other financial institutions in the Pacific northwest. He is reputed to be worth $10,000,000.

The trial ended today was the second, the first having resulted in a disagreement.

William Schrieker's bank at LaConner was declared bankrupt April 15, 1912. Its liabilities in excess of assets were said to reach nearly a half million dollars. The prosecution proved that Furth was a personal friend of Schrieker's and that Schrieker carried heavy accounts at all times with the Seattle National bank, which was his city correspondent bank.

On the morning that Schrieker failed to open his bank, according to the contention of the prosecution, the Seattle National messengers cashed checks which Schrieker's bank had mailed the day preceding. Instead of submitting them to the clearing house, the Seattle National indorsed the checks and demanded counter payment on them.

SEND SILK ABROAD TO BE DYED AND RETURN

PATERSON, N. J., April 18.—Employers of the striking silk workers are sending their silk abroad to be dyed and will have it shipped back to factories in Pennsylvania to be woven. It was declared here today. Some 50,000 pounds are already on the ocean, it was said, to be distributed for dyeing in England, France, Germany and Switzerland.

Efforts of the aldermanic committee to bring the strike to an end have been abandoned because of the unyielding attitude of the employers. Two men injured in last night's rioting were still alive this morning, but August Varache who was shot through the lungs was not expected to survive the day.

NEW YORK AMERICAN HAS A $50,000 FIRE LOSS

NEW YORK, April 18.—The editorial and mechanical staffs of the New York American were forced to flee from their building near the Brooklyn bridge terminal at press time early today by a threatening fire. The blaze originated in the engine room from an explosion and ate its way rapidly around the press room while dense clouds of smoke poured up the elevator shafts blocking the escape of more than 100 workers on the upper floors, some perilous, but all got out safely. The press room was so badly damaged that it was necessary to print the late editions from the World plant. The loss is less than $50,000. Two firemen were badly injured in fighting the flames.

NEW AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN MINISTER ARRIVES IN U. S.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Dr. Konstantin Theodor Dumba, Austria-Hungary's new ambassador to the United States, arrived here today from Europe. He will proceed tomorrow to Washington, and will present his credentials to President Wilson Monday.

Dr. Dumba spoke optimistically of the Balkan situation.

"Russia has taken the Austrian view as to what shall be done with Scutari and everything points to peace," he declared.

The outlook for trade between this country and Austria-Hungary is brighter as a result of the tariff reduction, said the ambassador.

SHIP WITHIN A SHIP IS "UNBINKABLE" OLYMPIC.

Photograph showing the result of the peculiar "operation" performed on the Olympic, the world's largest liner, which cost the White Star line about $1,500,000. An inner hull of heavy steel has been placed in her, making her virtually a ship within a ship. On the left is shown the old outer steel sides on the right the new inner steel shell. The space between the inner and outer steel walls is ample enough to carry some cargo, an additional protection. In the past ship builders have considered it sufficient if a vessel could float with only two compartments pierced. The Olympic would remain afloat if six of her compartments were flooded.

FIND NO BERGS, SHIPS SHIFT LANES OF TRAVEL

NEW YORK, April 18.—Owing to the fact that the Seneca, a United States revenue cutter, and the Scotia, a British steamship, both on duty as ice patrol vessels in the region where the Titanic was lost last year, have been unable to find any ice present in those waters, the principal transatlantic steamship lines are now operating their westbound vessels over a lane 60 miles north of the course which has been followed all winter.

The absence of ice is accounted for by the mildness of the winter just ended. The most southerly iceberg reported so far this spring was seen on March 28 by the Russia, of the Russian-American line, and was encountered 90 miles north of where the Titanic sank.

ARE JAPANESE ELIGIBLE FOR NATURALIZATION?

HONOLULU, T. H., April 18.—A report is being circulated here that a claim made in Tokio that Japanese living on American soil are eligible to naturalization, will be tested in the Hawaiian courts if the question is not settled at Washington.

If Hawaiian Japanese were admitted to citizenship they would have an overwhelming voting majority on the islands.

MAN WHO DEFAUDED 105 BANKS IS ARRESTED

CHICAGO, April 18.—James Patterson, who is said to have defrauded 105 banks out of more than $100,000, was arrested in a downtown hotel. He confessed to forging checks. A partner with whom he worked last fall in Wisconsin is under arrest at Erie, Colo. They are said to have represented themselves as whisky salesmen.

KANSAS CITY, April 18.—With $2,607,000 in currency within the First National bank here was unable to open its vaults today. The time lock combination, supposed to open automatically at 9 o'clock each morning, failed to work and efforts of all the vault experts in the city were in vain. Unless the vault is opened today, it will be dynamited. Neighboring banks lent money to conduct today's business.

NO RECORDS KEPT BABIES AT CHICAGO MATERNITY HOMES

CHICAGO, April 18.—Superintendents of maternity homes before a legislative committee investigating public institutions, admitted that they kept no records, that once a child was sent away there was nothing by which it could be traced.

"But don't you ever inquire how these babies are treated, whether they live or die?" inquired Chairman Curran of Dr. Wood.

"We keep no records at all," Dr. Wood said.

"But, say, if one of these girls, 20 years returned in a year or so and wanted her baby, is there no way in which she could find it?"

"Our responsibility ceases when we find a home for the infant," Dr. Wood said.

Dr. Wood said that on February 14 an infant was born at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Two hours later it was aboard a train bound for McGregor, Ia.

His explanation that an infant of that age could "go without nourishment without suffering" brought smiles to the faces of the representatives.

The doctor said he spent $1,500 in advertising, mostly in farm publications. He charged patients from $100 to $300, he said.

A physician from the health department testified that Wood's hospital was unsanitary and that he would recommend it be closed.

The committee visited the Beulah home, which is supported by Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mrs. Gustavus Swift and other wealthy women. This institution compels mothers to keep their infants and will prosecute the father if his name can be learned.

ROUMANIAN MINISTER IS VICTIM STUDENT'S JOKE

SOFIA, April 18.—Premier Geshoff informed the sobranie today that the Bulgarian government had accepted the terms of the last note of the great powers containing proposals for ending the war in southeastern Europe.

VIENNA, April 18.—A dispatch to a newspaper here reports that Bulgarian volunteers attacked a Serbian transport train between Kumanova and Kragpalanka. It says sharp fighting ensued in which 80 Serbian soldiers were killed or wounded.

The Servians fled, leaving the transport wagons, full of arms and ammunition, in the hands of the Bulgarians.

The losses of the Bulgarians are unknown.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, April 18.—What at first was supposed to have been an attempt to assassinate Minister of the Interior Josenescu in parliament today turned out to have been a demonstration by a student to draw attention to grievances of Roumanians in Macedonia.

CONTROVERSY WITH JAPAN

views or suggest a course of action tending to relieve the situation.

Await Word From President.

If the position taken by Japanese as what cable dispatches indicate, said one of the senate leaders today, it seems inevitable that some word must come from Washington soon without waiting for the passage of a particular bill by the legislature.

For that reason, and in view of the widespread interest that has sprung up in California, it was thought better to postpone any further consideration of the matter until next week.

The postponement applies also to the various amendments to the bill that have been offered and discussed.

A poll of the senate today disclosed an overwhelming majority in favor of an anti-tariff bill, but scarcely a handful of senators indicated a wish to include in its provisions foreigners or corporations controlled by persons eligible to citizenship.

The campaign in behalf of European investments in the state, it was said, had begun to be reflected in the changes of opinion among individual members in this regard.

Law May Yet Be Passed.

According to Senator Thompson, who drafted the original committee substitute in the senate, the only bill acceptable to the Japanese would be one placing an alien on a par with a poll of the house shows that such a law could not be passed.

In case no word comes from Washington, it is regarded as certain here that a law directed almost solely against the Japanese will be passed, with clauses exempting all European corporations. Only seven members of the senate have declared themselves against such a bill.

Senator Cammeltt, a Democratic leader, does not expect President Wilson or Secretary of State Bryan to take any part in the controversy until the legislature has acted upon a particular bill and it has gone to the governor for his signature.

Insists One of States Rights.

President Wilson having expressed his belief that this subject was one within the jurisdiction of a state to deal with, I do not anticipate any objections from him or the state department," Cammeltt said tonight.

The less we act and pass a law there would be no way to determine whether we had exceeded our jurisdiction."

Scores of telegrams presenting arguments both for and against the bills were received today. Many chambers of commerce throughout the state have wired objections to the bills.

On the other hand, letters received from farmers in the districts where the Japanese have settled declare that the Japanese have settled there on a basis of 10 cents a pound on pure raw wool, with compensatory duties on wool in different stages of manufacture equitably distributed on a basis of wool content.

He said the bill had the endorsement of the tariff board.

Representative Fordney attacked the rates as too low and objected to the conference endorsing any bill.

"I am opposed," he said, "to the Republicans presenting any substitute for the rates in the Democratic tariff bill. We have nothing to gain and everything to lose on such a transaction. If we put in a bill now and are defeated, we will have lost the bill. If we put in a bill now and are defeated, we will have lost the bill."

After a lengthy debate action was postponed until Monday evening when the conference will meet again.

SOON TO START "RURAL ORGANIZATION" SERVICE

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Dr. Thomas N. Carver of Harvard university appointed last week by Secretary Houston to take charge of the proposed "rural organization service," a new branch of the department of agriculture designed to aid the farmer along economic, social and cooperative buying and selling lines, will be in Washington within the next day or two to discuss with the department officials plans preliminary to starting the new work. Dr. Carver will not give up his duties at Harvard, however, until June 1.

The efforts of the service will be directed largely to teaching the farmer how better to market his products. Most of the department's activities in the past have been addressed to questions of production rather than to the buying and selling and the human side of farm life.

Describes Mass Meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—A telegram from Tokyo, received tonight by the Japanese-American newspaper here, described the mass meeting of Japanese and American missionaries yesterday, over which Count Okuma presided.

The message refers to the address of Bishop Harris of the Methodist Episcopal church for Japan and Korea, whose cablegram to the legislature today was the subject of comment in the senate.

Bishop Harris went while speaking and said he believed his 40 years' work for peace and good will between the United States and Japan was about to be undone if the California legislature did not modify its attitude.

There was no doubt that the audience at the Burns theater last night enjoyed the singing of David Bispham, and enjoyed also the personality of the man as it was shown in the explanatory talks he gave as the program was given.

Mr. Bispham, as everybody knows, is the ardent exponent of singing in English, and a number of people who heard him last night chose to go for that reason. Mr. Bispham, who in his "unregenerate days" sang Wagnerian opera in Italian before an English audience in Covent Garden, has come to believe that while some of the delicate shades of meaning of the writer, his lyrics may be lost in a translation, it is better so than that all the meaning should be lost altogether to the larger part of the audience, who may not understand other tongues at all. So all his selections last night were in English, and that fact had the effect of making music seem a very friendly and gracious thing, coming down to the place where the people themselves, all of them, could understand and appreciate it.

And if music is to be introduced to all the people, Mr. Bispham is a fit person to perform the introduction, since he knows it so well. He has been regarded all the years of his career as a consummate artist, much as Sembrich is known the world over. His voice may not be what it once was, but hearing him one forgets to wonder as to that. His is the art that conceals effort, and that fact, together with his tremendous dramatic ability, makes him universally popular wherever he sings.

His program last night was interesting, containing the songs of two centuries ago, modern foreign and recent American composers. An encore to the first group was the old song "O the Pretty, Pretty Creature," written by Stephen Storace, (who, Mr. Bispham said, never had any success until he called himself Senor Stevano).

Scott-Lueders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Scott, and Mr. Harold Harvey Lindsay, formerly of Manitou, were united in marriage, Monday, April 14, at 10:30 a. m. at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mandrell, where the only witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Mandrell.

The wedding took place at 10:30 in the morning, and later the bride and groom left for Lathrop, Mo., where they will make their home.

The engagement between the two young people was known by their friends, and it was expected that the wedding would take place next week. But the interested parties decided to dispense with an elaborate wedding, and they surprised their friends by their quiet marriage. Miss Maud Scott, a sister of Mrs. Lindsay, will be married the latter part of the month.

Both bride and groom are well known and popular here, and their friends will wish them all joy in their new life.

There were about 20 members present, and the day was a pleasant one. An interesting feature of the program was the paper read by Mrs. Marbourg on "Colonial Annapolis," a city which she saw and enjoyed last fall while visiting her son in the Naval academy there.

At the close of the program the hostess served refreshments. Mrs. William T. Gauss and Mrs. Francis W. Goddard poured tea, and Miss Avis Jones, Miss May Howbert and Mrs. Robert S. Brownie assisted in serving. The colonial colors, blue and buff.

LEGISLATORS WHO MADE GOOD

THE El Paso County Progressive club did no more than it should have done in adopting, Thursday night, resolutions thanking Senator W. C. Robinson and Representatives Warren M. Persons and Thomas E. Thomas for their services in the Nineteenth General Assembly. Judged by the old standards, perhaps these three men were failures as legislators. It used to be that the member who could bring to his county the most bridge and road money, or put through the most private bills, was considered the best man.

El Paso's three Progressives were not legislators of that kind. Their first duty, as they conceived it, was to carry out the planks in the Progressive platform upon which they were elected. They joined in no log-rolling; they entered into no deals. They stood from beginning to end of the session for principle.

In the Senate Judge Robinson was in a hopeless minority. Because he refused to bow the knee to Billy Adams, because he would not join in the infamous deal whereby Democrats and Republicans united to retain the corrupt Barela in his seat, Robinson was ostracized. The bi-partisan gang that controlled the Senate took particular delight in killing any bill in which he displayed any particular interest. His excellent divorce bill was defeated for no other reason than that Robinson had defied the machine. If, then, he comes back to his people empty-handed, so far as bills go, he comes back clean-handed, unbought, unpurchased. And that should mean more to the people of El Paso County than the passage of any number of small bills at the price of submission to the Adams-Barela bi-partisan machine. He fought a good fight; his voice was always lifted for the right, and, if the gang hated him, and did everything possible to punish him for his independence, it also feared him, as it fears any right-minded, independent, upright man.

Persons and Thomas, in the House, were more fortunate than Robinson in the Senate. Their votes, with the votes of other Progressives, were needed by the progressive Democrats in retaining control of the House and in the passage of the progressive legislation promised by all parties in the last campaign.

Persons, because of his wide study and specialized knowledge, was easily one of the most valuable members of the House. On the utilities bill all deferred to his immense knowledge of facts, his complete grasp of the subject. On all other economic matters, too, he was one of the two or three leaders, and his influence counted for much in the legislation that was enacted.

Thomas had not Persons' specialized knowledge, and he but rarely took part in debates. His splendid commonsense, however, stood him in good stead, and his devotion to principle was surpassed by that of no man in the House. Even his friends were surprised and pleased with the excellent grasp he displayed of the intricate problems that came up for solution, and his vote was always cast in favor of the carrying out of progressive policies, and against those measures that tended to lower the morality of the state.

The people of El Paso County regard these three men. The Progressives have done well in formally commending them. Whether the Democrats will feel that they can as unqualifiedly commend Kavanaugh or the Republicans Cornforth remains to be seen.

WHEN THEY GOT TIRED

WHAT the pleadings of men could not have accomplished, the imperious demands of nature brought to pass. On the last day of the legislative session it appeared that nothing could prevent the passage of the bill the sole aim of which was to destroy the civil service law adopted by vote of the people themselves. The few legislators who sincerely believed in the civil service had exhausted every resource at their command, and in vain. All that remained, it seemed, was for the conferees on the long appropriation bill to reach an agreement on salaries, in order that these might be inserted in the anti-civil service bill before that measure passed.

But the hours dragged past, and still there was no agreement on salaries. When the agreement did come, the majority of the members were physically "all in." They could actually do no more. Nature, therefore, came to the rescue of the civil service. While enough senators were finally herded together to vote for the passage of the anti-civil service bill, the House, though it waited until 9 o'clock the next morning, was unable to find sufficient votes to put the measure through, and adjournment was finally taken without the enactment of this thoroughly bad legislation.

Thanks to nature, therefore, Colorado still has the civil service. The legislature did take several offices out from under its protection, notably the insurance commissioner, but the great majority of the appointments are still under its protection.

The voters of Colorado should see to it, at the next election, that no candidates are elected to the legislature who do not bind themselves to observe the principles of the people's civil service law. Nature cannot always be depended to come to the rescue, as she did this year.

THE TOURIST DRIVER NUISANCE

THE worst nuisance in Colorado Springs, worse than flies in summer or dust storms in winter and spring, is the driver of a tourist carriage who meanders along the streets, keeping his horses at an even pace with his victim on the sidewalk, and pestering that victim to the point of distraction with solicitations of patronage. Many of these "tourist drivers," in their zeal cannot distinguish between tourists and citizens, and trail along behind old residents, urging them to take a trip through the Garden of the Gods or over the High Drive. And when they find a victim who bears the earmarks of a real live tourist, they belittle that individual. They make life miserable for him until he succumbs and engages the rig for a drive to one of the scenic resorts.

This procedure ought to be summarily stopped, for it is an unmitigated nuisance. Tourist drivers, as a rule, are a pestiferous set who make their living by annoying other people. Their horses or automobiles are kept for hours at a stretch beside the curb in front of a business house, waiting for passengers and incidentally preventing anybody else from stopping at that place without inconvenience. Or else they drive at a snail's pace along the street, haranguing everybody on the sidewalk in an effort to land a victim for some scenic drive.

But this is not the least of their sins. The tourist drivers are enthusiastic knockers against everything and anything in the shape of a scenic attraction which does not pay them a take-off or afford them an opportunity to earn a fee. Thus they inflict actual injury to the tourist business of this community, and their pestiferous nagging of tourists has been directly responsible for the premature departure of many a visitor who came here with the intention of staying long enough to see the entire region.

We don't suppose there is another city in the country where the drivers of this sort of vehicles are permitted such extraordinary liberty. And it should not be permitted here any longer than is necessary for the Council to pass a more drastic ordinance regulating their activities.

FROM THE PENS

A DINNER ON ICE

Like the man who purchased a new bathtub and said that he could "bath" all Saturday night, most persons who have read of the dinner that was recently placed in cold storage in Chicago, to remain there until served on September 30 next, will scarcely be able to possess their souls in patience until they see what they shall see.

For at this dinner of "banquets," as it is termed, will be served a feast of comparatively recent origin that will remain in suspended animation for seven months, butter, meat, fruits, vegetables and everything else that goes with an elaborate dinner of a fantastic dream of a cold storage gorge. Undoubtedly, much of this will be really palatable, some of it will improve by the long wait. Personally, however, we would incline to view with suspicion an egg that had first seen the light of day seven months previously. Certainly the fruits will not be more delectable, and there are other articles which, while they may be eaten, will scarcely be relished.

But seven months will pass very quickly, and we hope to be fully informed concerning the outcome of a thing that makes us shiver with cold when we think of it. It is that the dinner is to be eaten by an association of cold storage men, but even with that consideration confronting us, we are impressed by the fact that we have a heart, and can only wish that plomatoes will not like Banquo's ghost, rise to confront them.

WHY SHOULD BANKS FAIL?

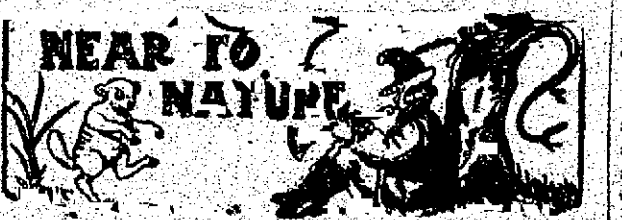

From Collier's Weekly.
Of course, banks must fail at times like any other human device. But it ought not to be such a hardship upon a community as it sometimes is. The bank is literally the heart of business life, and when it stops there is widespread suffering, without any reason. There is a perfectly simple way to avoid this. That is, by the guarantee fund. From this fund, when a bank closed, the depositors would be immediately paid in full, and the affairs of the bank then settled up in the usual way. The tax required to create this fund would be abominably small, perhaps one-twentieth of 1 per cent on deposits for a few years. The mortality of our national banks has been remarkably slight. Of over fifteen banks that failed since 1883, only a little over 500 have actually failed. This is a total of 3 per cent in nearly 30 years. In this failure 5 per cent, depositors were paid 82 cents on the dollar. This means an average loss of less than one twenty-fifth of 1 per cent of all deposits per year. There is only one objection, or objector, to this guarantee fund. That is, the big banker. Such a fund would greatly strengthen the small banks. And there is need that the small banks should be made stronger. Since 1900, a very large number of small national banks have been formed. These have never undergone a business depression except in 1907, which was too brief a test. The guarantee fund would not encourage wildcat banking. It is as many believe, a period of depression is likely to follow the present worldwide extravagance, there is a special reason why this fund ought to be created now.

A PROMISING WAR SECRETARY

From the New York Sun.
President Wilson seems to have made no mistake in calling the Hon. Lindley M. Garrison to the head of the war department. Ordered to the flooded district to make himself useful, the new secretary regarded neither his comfort nor his safety in pushing through to the scene of his work. The railroad officers did not find him tractable. He refused to abandon his journey because there was danger of a landslide that his train be driven ahead as long as a wheel could be turned. "I have no desire to be a foolhardy," he said, "but this expedition is one of grave emergency." Moreover, Secretary Garrison took a very sensible view of his business in the west.

"It is when the waters begin to recede that the government should be able to do its most effective work." The Jersey City lawyer seemed to have no special qualifications for managing the war department when his name was announced as secretary. It looked like a hazard to call him. But already he has developed a capacity for his task and a liking for it. He is full of business, practical, alert, receptive, and genuinely interested in army reforms. Already he is a good soldier, knowing how to obey orders and push to the front to execute them; he has spirit, pluck, and an indomitable desire to do things.

MOTIVES

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever happen to consider what widely different motives underlie our good deeds? Something started this train of thought for me, and it carried me into a very interesting country. At least I found it so. Of course tastes differ in mental landscapes as well as material ones.

We are apt to think of an act of charity as a fixed quantity representing a certain amount of merit. It seems to me in reality that the act itself is only one of the factors. There are other factors which must be considered in reckoning the final product. And the motive behind the deed is one of the most important.

The lowest motive for charity is that of the Pharisees who did their aims "to be seen of men." If you multiply any sum, no matter how large, by zero, you still get zero. So it seems to me that the merit of Pharisaical alms, no matter how lavish, is always zero.

A dominant idea of the old religion was that we should be good, because if we weren't we'd be overhauled and punished for it. Can you see much merit in being good because you are afraid you'll suffer if you aren't? And yet that is the spirit in which many people give alms, because they fear punishment here or hereafter if they withhold them. A man who religiously gave away a tenth of his income to charity frankly confessed to me that he did it because he was afraid his prosperity would come if he didn't. I call this the superstitious motive, and I think it is a little better than the Pharisaical one, but not much.

Still others give because they hope to be rewarded for doing so. Some expect an immediate earthly reward in the shape of prosperity and earthly desires fulfilled. Others hope to buy a ticket to heaven with their alms. Does that seem like a satisfactory motive to you? I must say it doesn't quite content me. It is too much like investing money with the expectation of getting very high interest. We deny ourselves pleasures and gratifications in the fleeting today because we believe we shall thereby win for ourselves greater pleasures and gratifications in the eternal tomorrow. And yet, since much of religion is built on just that motive, I don't quite dare call it at.

To be generous toward your fellowmen because you cannot approve of yourself unless you are, seems to me a really satisfactory motive. There is only one hitch, if it is higher, and that is to do things for your fellowmen because you love them and want to help them. I can't quite decide which of these two motives is the higher. The first involves effort, the second impulse. A naturally beautiful character, who is so much without stain or blot who does the will of God and knows it not. Perhaps the best way to rank these two is to say that the first is a nobler motive, and the second more beautiful.

From that motive do your kind acts come?

HISTORY

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

History is the record of the past compiled for the benefit of the future and the installment book houses.

History is written usually a hundred years or so after events have transpired and mankind has cooled off about them to some extent. It takes a good scholar to write history, and a great man to make it.

Most of our leading manufacturers are now manufacturing history. In another hundred years they will be totally dead, while some pale, un-

Translating inscriptions on pyramids and preserved kings advertised chap will have reformed a nation or blown up a navy or swiped a throne and will be rumbling ponderously down the corridors of time under the auspices of fame.

When the world first began to be infested with men there were no books and few records were left. The scholar had to write history by translating inscriptions on pyramids and preserved kings. Nowadays no scholar takes the trouble to carve history on granite slabs. It is all printed in the newspapers. We would not care to be a historian of the year 2600 and be compelled to read 11 newspaper accounts of the war in the Balkans and guess which one is true.

History is very useful, serving both as an inspiration and a horrible example. From the fall of Babylon, and the fall of Carthage, we learn that we should not disregard handwriting on the wall. From the fate of Columbus, we should learn that it is of no use to discover a new continent unless you stake out a few coal and timber claims for yourself. From the American Revolution we should learn that you can lead a horse to water but look out for his heels.

UNLUCKY DAYS TO WED

From Pitt-Rivers.
Marry in Lent and you will live to repent.
Marry in May and you will rue the day.

May and February were held by the ancient Romans to be the two months in the year which were certain to bring ill luck, while even the church before the time of the reformation placed a ban upon all marriages contracted between the first Sunday of Advent and Hilary day, between Septuagesima Sunday and Low Sunday, and between Rogation Sunday and Trinity Sunday. Thus only 32 weeks of the year were left by the church for marrying.

As to the best day, if we would believe a tradition handed down by the ancients, any day is certain to bring appointed happiness if it only be when "the moon is growing." There are other traditions which, if you are superstitious, it will be well to observe. One of these is that May 14 brings ill luck for all the rest of the year, and if you would be assured of misfortune then select Childermas day for the date of your wedding. This day is the anniversary of the massacre of the Innocents. A wedding on the last day of the year is also said to be productive of great misfortunes.

JOSE QUEVEDO

JOSE QUEVEDO, publisher of a Mexico City newspaper, who asserts he was an eyewitness to the killing of the late President Madero and Vice President Suarez of Mexico. He declares that when the soldiers who were escorting the doomed men to prison refused to obey the command to fire, the officer clubbed Madero with his revolver and then shot him dead through the mouth. The horror-stricken soldiers then obeyed the command to fire on Suarez, who fell with the first volley. Quevedo adds that these soldiers were later executed in an effort to wipe out all eyewitnesses of the assassination.

HARDY'S

16 N. Tejon

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

April 19, 1883.

Mayor Warnke of Pueblo was a visitor in the city.

F. E. Robinson was planning to tear out the front of his drug store and replace it with plate glass with the entrance on the corner instead of at the side.

Official notice was given that on the twenty-third the stationery department of the D. & C. R. G. would be moved to Denver. The auditor's office had been moved to that city on the first but the other general offices remained in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. A. M. Ringley, who had been a resident of the city since 1873, and prominent in the First Baptist church, died at her home, 321 North Tejon street.

It was pointed out that the high standing of Colorado Springs securities was attested by the fact that 30 firms had asked to bid on the water refunding bonds.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE MODERN WOMAN

XXV—LEGISLATION DESIRED BY WOMEN

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Every state in the country has one or more organized bodies of women before legislative bodies, the supreme court of that state was induced to see that, even under the same constitution, it is legal to limit the working hours of women to ten hours a day.

In every state, women are working to abolish child labor and to secure compulsory education laws, as well as the better enforcement of those already in existence. In a number of states, the consideration of a pension for mothers with children has received the strong support of the women. It was defeated in New York last year, but the women of several organizations are working together and individually to bring it forward again. It is hoped that by the avoidance of the features which were objected to last year the bill will be passed by the present legislature. The women argue that for economic reasons it is better to provide a pension which will enable a widowed mother to keep her children with her than to break up the family by placing the children in institutions. In many instances, the proper enforcement of the existing child labor laws demand that the mother receive a weekly allowance equivalent to the earnings of a child if taken from school before the legal age limit. In Ohio, California, Minnesota and Pennsylvania, public commissions for the consideration of the provisions of mothers' pension bills are now under consideration.

Tariff Not Big Questions.
At a great national gathering of women a man took note of the fact that while the meeting included many women, suffragists interested in political issues, the subjects brought forward as local interest, a large number of women from all parts of the country have been working actively for the passage of an eight hour law for working women in the District of Columbia since a similar bill now is before a number of state legislatures and the example of the district will be considered strong moral support.

Deal With Working Conditions.
A large proportion of the laws desired by women deal with the conditions of working women and children. The minimum wage law is one that is desired in every state and so far has been secured only by the women of Massachusetts, who have been working valiantly for it for years. At the opening of the present session of the legislature at Washington, one of the women members introduced a bill providing that the minimum wages to be paid to women in that state should not fall below a dollar and a quarter a day. Women also are endeavoring to secure the passage of laws in the different states which will limit the hours of labor either per day or per week. It is usually felt that the weekly limitation allows a greater liberty than the daily. There are business emergencies in some industries, especially laundries, where it seems necessary to keep the women at work more than eight hours, or in some instances more than nine hours a day, which can readily be met by permitting the limitation to extend to fifty-four hours per week, which is the time limit desired by most women.

The efforts made for improved laws affecting women and children who work in most cases have not been originated by the women themselves, but rather by their more fortunate employers who see their needs and have power to aid them. The efforts of Mrs. Glendower Evans in Boston, and Mrs. Frederick Nathan, Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell and Miss Anne Morgan of New York, had much to do with securing the passage of the minimum wage bill and other legislation, such as providing seats for women employed in stores and limiting the hours of their work.

Result of Long Campaigns.
In most cases, all legislative measures secured by women are the effect of continued campaigns of education. As recently as 1895, the judges of the courts of Illinois held that the constitution of the United States forbade all restriction upon the working hours of women. In 1900, after continuous agitation and the appearance of those having equal rights in all things before the law, the women are seeking legislation regarding their property, their own earnings, their equality in the guardianship of their children, their rights to sign commercial papers, to make legal contracts, to engage in business without the continuous agitation and the appearance

OBSERVE ARBOR DAY

The annual Arbor day exercises were held at the High school yesterday morning beginning with a short rally in the auditorium of the school. This rally was featured by a short pep talk delivered by Prof. Frederick Bair, director of athletics at the institution. In preparation for the baseball game with Cutler academy this afternoon.

After the rally, members of the senior class planted their vine, following a custom of many years standing at the school. At this ceremony Edward Morath, senior class orator, delivered a short talk and Edgar Garver represented the juniors in returning the address.

The seniors, following the exercises at the school, devoted the rest of the day with a "Rike" up life pass to cascade.

Wan, Weary and Worn Out

If You Feel Fagged to a Finish and Utterly Used Up Here is Quick Relief.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a wonderful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nervines that spasmodically flare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood; to the white corpuscles and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

If you feel played out go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S. Swift's Sore Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling. It just naturally rushes right into your blood, cleanses it, restores it, and restores your system right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains is about started and comes home a settler just cooking a savory meal of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 157 Swift place, Atlanta, Ga. Send for their free book telling of the many strange conditions that afflict the human family by reason of impoverished blood.

SENATOR ROBINSON ON RECENT STATE ASSEMBLY

Although great good was accomplished in many directions by the last session of the legislature, many members of that body, who refused to become parties to the Adams-Barella deal, found their own work, and in this way the work of the legislature, hindered by the antagonism of the Adams-Barella faction. This is the opinion of C. W. Robinson, Republican progressive member of the state senate from El Paso county, who returned to his home in this city yesterday. He said last night.

Unfortunately for the state, a deal was made at the beginning of the session to elect Billy Adams president pro tem, and to keep Barola in his seat. The effect of this deal was felt throughout the session. Those members who had too much self-respect to be parties to the deal were not always so successful as they wished.

"Although the reactionary forces were generally in control, I think it fair to say that many good measures were passed. Some of these acts would not have been even considered 10 years ago.

"I was much disappointed in not securing the passage of my divorce bill. As the present law has been in force for 20 years, and no one ever attempted to secure its improvement, I may have made a very good start, and two years from now will bring the much-desired change.

"My bill to repeal the Moffat tunnel law was passed, and my bill to provide the cumulative system of voting in all elections of directors of corporations was passed with two important amendments. I actively supported the amendment and reappointment bill. I wish we could have ironed out more of the harsh and doubtful features of the public utilities bill, which I supported. I opposed the horse race bill, the prize fight bill and four bills designed to muzzle the press. We procured the assistance of four progressive Democrats to defeat the bill to transfer Teller county to the Eleventh district, and I claim the credit for obtaining their aid.

Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson proved to be one of the most able members of the senate. She was a sharp thorn in the side of the 'Bully' party, the cloak-room name for the followers of Billy Adams. She is a most enthusiastic progressive Democrat, and has great hope for the future of that faction. She is very confident that her 'bunch' will be in control in 1916.

"The bill to reduce the number of employees in the state house and to reduce salaries was finally defeated, but the bill to increase taxation was passed. The people should expect the waste of public moneys to continue and the taxes to increase. The situation isn't so bad as it could be, nor half so good as it should be."

ROUTINE BUSINESS UP

The construction of concrete curbs and gutters on the south side of Washington avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, was authorized by the city council. The improvement was requested by property owners.

An application for a hotel solicitor's license, filed by C. E. Reese, proprietor of a lodging house at 61 East Pike's Peak avenue, was referred to Commissioners Whitaker and Himebaugh for recommendation. For about a year no such licenses have been granted, and before the present policy is changed, an opinion regarding them will be obtained from the city attorney.

Covering the free list for the present term, $150 in rentals was authorized to be charged to charity by the water department.

URGE HOME INDUSTRIES

Practical suggestions for securing new industries for Colorado Springs were given Thursday night at a meeting of the Colorado Springs Boosters association at the C. W. Daniels store. The manufacture of cedar chests in this city from material shipped from Oregon was recommended by C. W. Daniels, Jr. The chests now are manufactured in West Virginia, and local dealers are compelled to pay the difference in freight. An appeal to the interstate commerce commission to secure better freight rates for this line was recommended by David R. James, formerly of Scranton, Pa.

EL PASO DECLINES $2 WITHIN TWO MONTHS

The steady decline in the price of El Paso stock has caused comment in the local mining exchange, but mining men are unable to account for this decline. Within the last two months the stock has dropped from $6.35 to $4.35, the latter being the highest figure bid yesterday. Shares were quoted at $4.35 on the New York exchange yesterday, with no activity. No progress has been made, so far as can be learned, on the proposed consolidation of the Golden Cycle and El Paso companies, which President Burris of the El Paso company proposed to effect through the purchase of Golden Cycle stock at a price fixed in an option given by President John T. McCosken. The stock was to be floated abroad. It was understood, through the banking house of Joseph N. Walker & Sons of New York.

PHEASANTS BROUGHT HERE

James Bush, deputy state game warden, brought a dozen Chinese pheasants, a bird which the state game commission is trying to introduce in Colorado, to Stratton park yesterday. The birds were placed in a large wire inclosure prepared by the park superintendent, and will be kept there until they hatch some broods. The birds are expected to be one of the best attractions at the park, and within a year or two probably will be so much at home that they can be allowed to go at large.

Bush said yesterday that the new Colorado game law, which calls for rigid protection for the next five years for all wild animals, with certain exceptions, such as coyotes, wolves and bears, will be enforced to the limit. During that time there will be no open season on deer, and anyone caught killing a deer, elk or antelope will be fined $100 and placed in jail for 60 days for the first offense. Bush believes that within five years, with such protection, the deer should be plentiful enough and tame enough to come down into the city limits.

Bush, who is 72 years old, but looks much younger, is a veteran of the Civil war, and of several Indian wars in the west. Late he has been himself known along the old Santa Fe trail in the days of freight wagons and prairie schooners, and has been a terror to "bad men" from New Mexico to Montana. He has twice been in danger of hanging as a result of a shooting scrape with desperadoes. Bush has a record for fearless work in the enforcement of the game laws.

We wish to thank our friends for their kindness and offerings in our grave.

BARTON IS IMPROVING

That he is improving and expects to become entirely well soon is the news conveyed in a letter to a friend in this city from Architect George Edward Barton, who was formerly confined to his bed by several months ago for his health. Guy Lowell, Barton's New York partner, has become famous recently as the designer of the New York court house, which is planned on the model of the Roman coliseum.

WHEN A MAN FACES HIS PAST

The International Sunday School Lesson for April 20 is, "Jacob's Meeting With Esau." Gen. 32:33-37.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

There comes a time in nearly every man's life when he is brought up suddenly face to face with his own past. That is a decisive hour, a tremendous experience for good or ill. A recent magazine poem recited how a young man, who had "sown his wild oats," underwent this experience when his first child was born, and he was punished not only in his own soul but in the lives of his wife and baby for his past. There are other pictures, fairer to look upon, of men who in this hour of crisis find themselves free and happy, because the integrity of their past living has summoned up its armies for reinforcement. Some time or other, everybody will be sustained or smitten by the life he has lived.

The most eventful hour in the life of the patriarch Jacob was when his once victorious cunning confronted him and he saw that he had become his own man. All his guile was then futile to save him from the vengeance he deserved. The brother whom he had foully wronged was able to strike him a blow that neither wealth nor subtlety could avert. In this extremity only God could help him. The night of wrestling that followed saw the end of the old Jacob. He won a new character and a new name at Jabbok. The story is like one of the testimonies heard in a rescue mission; of a man made over by meeting with God. It is a study in human nature, as well as in divine providence.

Getting Right With the World.

The great business of human adjustment, the establishment of correct relationships with one's brother man, is really at center a matter of getting right with the Father of us all. Jacob became reconciled to Jehovah. The shortest way to clear up the social problems of our time is for men to get on true terms with God. The only abiding basis for the solution of our day's teeming perplexities is this, "New legislation may do much, but only a sense of man's obligation to God will hold men true to those ideals by which alone society can be kept pure and strong and safe."

This is the meaning of Jacob's crisis. His night of wrestling at Jabbok is a dramatic rendering of the old lesson of getting-right-with-God. Jacob was torn by conflicting emotions. He was frankly scared. He had reached his limit. Messengers reported that a little farther on his wayward brother Esau was approaching with a force of four hundred men. How could a reconciliation be effected? The self-examination that ensued brought Jacob face to face with God.

A Craftsman's Education.

That night of wrestling, one of the most memorable incidents in the Bible, transformed Jacob's character. He came to the heavenly vision, grasping a blessing. When he crossed to struggle, and yielded himself to the angel in token of surrender of his proud and selfish will, he was given the coveted blessing. The new man won a new name. Old Jacob was slain that night, and in his body arose a new prince whose name was called Israel.

There is one education which comes from books and there is a richer education which grows out of a great spiritual experience. The Civil war was a school of manhood for millions of American boys. In the experience of a great love nature man comes to his purely local or contemporary production. This universality is the highest test of literary excellence. Nothing is great literature which does not widely appeal to the human heart. So it comes to pass that the scholar and the housekeeper, the sage and the workman, alike find delight and comfort in the Psalms.

Instead of making comments upon familiar verses from the Psalms, I shall follow out the thought of the topic and quote a few favorite verses. Make thy way straight before my face.—Ps. 119:101. He forgetteth not the cry of the poor.—Ps. 112:1. The heavens declare the glory of God. And the firmament sheweth his handiwork.—Ps. 119:19.

Who can discern his errors? Clear thou me from hidden faults.—Ps. 119:12. Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Jehovah, my rock, and my redeemer.—Ps. 119:14. Jehovah is my shepherd; I shall not want.—Ps. 23:1. Jehovah is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear?—Ps. 119:104. Jehovah is the strength of my life; Of whom shall I be afraid?—Ps. 27:1. Weeping may tarry for the night, But joy cometh in the morning.—Ps. 30:5.

My times are in thy hand.—Ps. 31:15. Be strong, and let your heart take courage. All ye that hope in Jehovah.—Ps. 31:24. The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger; But they that seek Jehovah shall not want any good thing.—Ps. 34:10. Jehovah is high upon them that are of a broken heart. And saveth such as are of a contrite spirit.—Ps. 34:18. Delight thyself also in Jehovah; And he will give thee the desires of thy heart.—Ps. 37:4. I have been young, and now am old; Yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, Nor his seed begging bread.—Ps. 37:25. As the hart panteth after the water brooks, So panteth my soul after thee, O God.—Ps. 42:1. Why art thou cast down, O my soul? And why art thou disquieted with in me? Hope, thou in God; for I shall yet praise him. Who is the help of my countenance, and my God.—Ps. 42:11. God is our refuge and strength. A very present help in trouble.—Ps. 46:1. Create in me a clean heart, O God; And renew a right spirit within me.—Ps. 51:10. Cast all thy burden upon Jehovah, and he will sustain thee; He will never suffer the righteous to be moved.—Ps. 55:22. Lord, thou hast been our dwelling-place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, Or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, Even from everlasting to everlasting thou art God.—Ps. 90:1-2. He shall call upon me, and I will answer him; I will be with him in trouble; With long life will I satisfy him. I will deliver him, and honor him. And show him my salvation.—Ps. 91:15-18. Jehovah is merciful and gracious, Slow to anger, and abundant in loving-kindness. He will not always chide; Neither will he keep his anger for ever. He hath not dealt with us after our sins; Nor rewarded us after our iniquities. For as the heavens are high above the earth, So great is his loving-kindness toward them that fear him. As far as the east is from the west, So far hath he removed our transgressions from us. Like as a father pitieth his children, So Jehovah pitieth them that fear him.—Ps. 103:8-14. Wherewith shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to thy word.—Ps. 119:9. The word have I hid up in my heart; That I might not sin against thee.—Ps. 119:11. Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, And light unto my path.—Ps. 119:105. Thy that sow in tears shall reap in joy. He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing seed for sowing, Shall doubtless come again with joy, bringing his sheaves with him.—Ps. 126:5-6. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, So Jehovah is round about his people From this time forth, and for evermore.—Ps. 125:2.

Winning Over an Enemy.

Jacob sent his presents to meet his brother, dividing them into five instalments, each better than the one that had gone before. The cumulative effect of this upon Esau's mind needs an explanation. Then Jacob divided his company and his possessions into two parties, with his favorite wife and son in the most protected place. When finally he came up with Esau, and had prostrated himself seven times before his brother, he pressed upon him the gifts. The incident illustrates the Master's word, "Make to yourself friends by means of the mammon of unrighteousness."

True to his younger nature, Esau the impulsive, the heedless, the generous, readily forgave his brother. He could be wheedled out of his vengeance as easily as he had been wheedled out of his birthright. The two were reconciled. Jacob's danger was safely past. He was at peace to settle in the home of his fathers, in the land of promise. Therefore we see no more of the shrewd, crafty, self-seeking Jacob. He had become Israel, a prince, and the founder of a nation.

GEMS FROM OLD SONGS

Terse Comments Upon the Uniform Prayer Meeting. Topic of the Young People's Societies, Christian Endeavor, etc., for April 20, "Favorite Verses." I. In the Psalms.—Ps. 19:1-14.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

The oldest songs still extant are the Hebrew Psalms. They are dearer to the race than any other literature. For nearly 3,000 years they have been yielding the deepest sentiments, the hopes, the fears, the joys, the sorrows, the contrition, the adoration of millions of persons. They are attuned to a universal note; for, although they were written in a little land on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean, they more completely express the varying moods of the people of today in all lands under heaven than any

Laymen Confer on the Great Church Campaign

Leaders Gather at Garden City to Plan for Concerted Action by All Protestantism—Canada and States Together—Immense Problems Confront Committee Which Must Cover Continent With Meetings

(By the Religious Rambler.)
At the present moment there is in session in Garden City, Long Island, a conference of about 50 leading laymen from various parts of the United States and Canada, to consider the features and plan of the united missionary campaign which has been organized for the present year, culminating in an evangelistic canvass of all the Protestant churches next March. The conference opened on the afternoon of April 16, and ends on Sunday. The names signed to the call included George Warren Brown, Samuel B. Capen, William F. Cochran, Henry P. Crowell, Cleveland H. Dodge, Elijah W. Halford, J. Edgar Learycraft, Silas McBee, William B. Miller, Eben E. Olcott, William Jay Schieffelin, L. H. Severance, Robert E. Speer, E. B. Sturges, John W. Wamaker, J. Campbell White, Mornay Williams, S. W. Woodward.

By all odds, the greatest religious news of the year was first made public several weeks ago by the Religious Rambler—is this united missionary campaign. Even the church public is only beginning to realize its magnitude. It means that all the denominations, through their home and foreign mission boards, have got together for a concerted effort to reach every last member of the remotest congregations with a definite appeal for the support of the missionary work of the church. The idea of the simultaneous canvass has already been tried out successfully in individual denominations. The task is so huge that it must look to the government census for a parallel. The central committee in charge consists of Rev. A. B. Lloyd, D. D., bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, as chairman; Rev. H. C. Herring, D. D., of the Congregational denomination, as vice chairman; Mr. Eben E. Olcott of the Dutch Reformed church as treasurer; and William B. Miller of the Laymen's Missionary Movement as secretary. The executive work is entrusted to a special committee comprising S. Earle Taylor, Rev. C. R. Watson, D. D., George Inness, and William B. Miller, the two last named serving as general secretaries.

Touching Fifty Millions.
There are approximately fifty million Protestant church members in the United States and Canada, and to touch all of these one by one for a specific purpose at a given time is easier to talk about than to do. Most of the churches are remote from large centers and their relationship to denominational headquarters is most tenuous. A task like this reveals the fact that Protestantism is not organized for administration. Its individualism proves a weakness when a common task is to be undertaken.

An entirely new set of machinery must be created to carry out such a project as the denominations have undertaken. The federal council needs to have been ignored entirely. When anything big of a practical nature is up for consideration, a new organization is required. This is in the Men and Religion Movement. It is so in the present campaign. The implied rejection upon the inadequacy of existing church agencies is really more ominous than open criticism. Some close observers of the trend of things in the churches are pointing out that one great denomination has been made almost entirely over in its work and methods by the new organization of its laymen.

Will the Church Stand It?
After the Men and Religion campaign it was freely said in the religious press as well as in gatherings of ministers that the country had had enough of "movements" and "campaigns" for several years to come. A leader from the Pacific coast whimsically expressed it in this fashion, "We have made up our minds that if anybody comes to our town proposing another 'campaign' or 'movement,' we will shoot him on sight." Pastors say that their local church work, the normal activities of religion, as well as their own individual efforts, are being given a fair show at the time of these high-pressure, national campaigns. They question the present tendency to run all religious work by mass movements. The strain upon local cities is really considerable.

The question of expense is already being brought up in connection with the new movement. That the men of the country are ready to give, and give largely for new and important work, was made clear by the Men and Religion Movement. This was implicit in the fact that it was immediately beneficial. It left behind it new methods and new messages. The value of these is indisputable. Incidentally, these men's movements are doing more for church union than all the organizations and activities that have church union for a specific objective. Likewise, they are compelling various readjustments and reorganizations within the denominations, on the basis of efficiency. The infusion of the lay spirit into church work, and business men's methods have been revolutionary, but wholesome. One needs no very keen vision to see on the religious horizon the "cost expert" to put the finances of the denominations on a scientific basis. Nevertheless, the question is really whether the country is ready to bear the load of another national canvass.

A Convention for Every Town.
It has already been announced by the leaders of the united missionary campaign that a conference, or convention, will be held, so far as possible, in every town and city of 5,000 population or over. This is a large order. It is estimated that there are more than 1,200 such centers in the United States and Canada to be reached. It is proposed to have 20 teams of speaking experts—the Men and Religion Movement had only five—who shall give all of next winter to speaking work. A moment's thought reveals the hugeness of this undertaking. The mileage to be traveled, the schedules to be arranged, the local committees to be formed, the literature to be printed, the hotel bills to be met. Certainly the task is a man's job.

At the outset, the committee is confronted by the difficulty in getting enough qualified speakers to man 20 teams. The public demands bona fide laymen. The speech of the man who is employed to promote a certain subject is, perhaps, unreasonably discounted by the public. They want the disinterested layman. Whether there are sufficient laymen to be secured, remains to be seen. Most laymen have their living to make, and cannot go about the country speaking for any considerable period. If they become salaried workers, they lose their amateur standing, as the sporting editors say.

New Plans for Publicity.
It is known that the committee is already talking of the possibilities of an entirely new method of publicity with a view to reaching the country with the campaign's message. The possibility of spending great sums of money in display advertising is under consideration. The old idea of religious publicity entertained by the professional workers in the field of religion, namely, that of write-ups of themselves in connection with their speeches, will surely be discarded. The men at the head of this campaign have already said that they want the work, and not the workers, spread before the public. To that end they talk of a new body of religious literature. How to disseminate this remains to be seen.

Despite all its difficulties, the proposal upon which the churches have entered is one of big vision and practical plans. It will probably have consequences different from and far greater than those the promoters contemplate.

CECIL RODGERS, AS NANKI
POO, IN "THE MIKADO"

The best singing Cecil Rodgers has ever done he is doing as the minstrel Nanki Poo. His voice is well suited to the part, being a musical tenor of good range and power, and he is demonstrating a command of rhythm and expression which will make his sailor's song and the patriotic song with the men's chorus a most effective number.

This men's chorus is a rouser. The "Yo-heave-ho" of the sailors and the "Tum-tee-dee-dum" of the patriotic chorus will start off the opera with a swing, and it is needless to say that there are no lulls throughout the rest of the production.

THE DAY'S HAPPENINGS IN SPORT CIRCLES

Edited for THE GAZETTE by E. E. Overholt

American Golfers Are After Foreign Laurels

NEW YORK, April 18.—A few short weeks six professional golfers will sail from these shores in what will unquestionably prove to be the most determined effort ever made by Americans to win honors on links abroad. Although six were named by the executive committee of the United States Golf association to make the trip to France for the match with the French team at La Boule, the latter part of June, only four will play. These are Alex Smith, the captain; J. J. McDermott, the national open champion; Tom McNamara, the metropolitan open title holder; and M. J. Brady, Gil Nichols and Alec Campbell are substitutes.

TERRORS SLATED TO PLAY CUTLER TODAY

The crippled Terrors and the ditto Cutler academy boys are slated to meet at Washburn field this afternoon at 2 o'clock in a continuation of the interscholastic league fust. Physical, both squads are somewhat on the blink, but the athletes remaining unmaimed expect to play just as swift a game as though all the regulars were in the rink.

The Terrors will be without their Saturday afternoon battery, Mr. P. Deal having a twisted tendon in his possession, while Mr. Lee Vorch, the well-known backstopper, has a broken finger on his throwing arm. It is probable that the versatile Mr. Fowler will do the flinging for the Terrors, with the question of his receiver still to be decided. At a late hour last night Mr. Nye, faculty manager, regretted to report that the home and of the batters had not been determined.

Captain Dickinson is slated to start the box work for Cutler, and in the event that his arm develops a kink, Gregg will be rushed to the rescue. With both teams handicapped by the failure to regular, the result of the bout appears to be a pretty even proposition.

JOHNSON AND WHITNEY DRAW IN TEN ROUNDS

DENVER, April 18.—Frankie Whitney of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Eddie Johnson of Pueblo fought 10 rounds to a draw tonight before the Denver Athletic club.

Jack Redmond of Milwaukee and Johnson were matched tonight to box 10 rounds at Pueblo on April 23.

Johnson was the aggressor from the start. Whitney's clever footwork and counterpunching, however, evened matters up and the referee's decision met with the approval of the audience. Both men were strong at the finish.

Johnson started after the Lewan with the tap of the gong and was on top of him every minute of the fighting until the finish. Whitney contented himself the first six rounds with merely blocking his opponent's swings, occasionally sending in a left jab and right swing to the head.

Two battling preliminaries preceded the main event. Percy Lewis, lightweight, won the decision from Young Craddock of Pueblo at the end of the sixth round.

Dick Buttry of Denver, welterweight, won from Earl Brown of Sterling, Colo., at the end of the sixth. Brown's seconds threw up the sponge.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Three cabinet members were seen at the opening of the new baseball stadium in Washington today. They were Secretary of War Daniel, who is from North Carolina, where the fans must be content with minor league baseball, and Attorney General McReynolds, who has probably seen many a big league game since he moved from Kentucky to New York.

Vice President Marshall, whose duties as presiding officer of the senate are not arduous, will likely be seen at many games during the season. Senator Culbertson of Texas has seen the Giants of New York train in Marlin in his state.

All these officials were on hand when the Senators of Washington and the Yankees of New York opened the season at the national capital.

OMAHA, April 18.—The opening day of the Western league in Omaha was more auspicious than any in the history of the city, and the local fans celebrated a victory over Sioux City 5 to 3. Many business houses made it a half holiday and commercial bodies of the city added their physical presence to the success of the day. Eight thousand persons passed through the turnstiles.

Threatening clouds did not dampen the ardor of the crowd, which was ready at all times to cheer the home team to victory. A single in the fifth inning by Congalton clinched the victory for Omaha. The bases were full when Congalton sent a stinging single down the first base line, scoring two men. A minute later he himself scored a double, his hitting in a home run in a lead which could not be overcome.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—After playing a fine uphill game here today, Boston hammered Benders' delivery for three doubles and two singles in the ninth inning, scoring four runs and winning the game on account of a poor pitching was shown on both sides. The home team drove Foster, formerly of Houston, Tex., off the ladder in the ninth inning and lost opportunities to add to their score by reckless base running. No hits were made off Brown until the fifth inning, but he began to weaken in the fourth, when he gave three passes. Houck took his place in the seventh. Benders, who succeeded Foster, retired in the eighth to permit Hall to bat for him. Benders succeeded Houck in the eighth. Leonard, who followed Redlett to the rubber, weakened in the ninth. Then Danny Murphy opened with a single. Two outs were followed by passes to Collins and Baker. Wood was rushed to the rubber and he ended the game by running Melnitz.

NEW YORK, April 18.—New York lost another game in Washington today, 7 to 5, as the home team scored seven runs after a plucky, uphill fight in a long-drawn-out contest. Tom Hughes, the veteran pitcher of the visitors, while wild at times, was effective in every inning except the seventh, when the locals scored four runs on four bases on balls and three singles. Hughes recovered before the inning was over, putting out Ray Caldwell, sent in as a pinch-hitter, for the third time. An error single and a double for New York was touched up freely, but many of the safeties were of the infield variety.

PITTSBURG, April 18.—Manager Joe Tinker's three-bagger scored Becher and Bates in the ninth inning today. From that time until Umpire Owens called the game on account of darkness, at the end of the twelfth inning, the score stood 5 to 5. Soon after saving his game, Tinker had a dispute over a throw by Owen, who dropped him off the field.

Camnitz pitched good ball, but in the third inning poor fielding behind him gave the Reds three runs. Grant's walk and singles by Clarke, Bates and Holman, with a slip on a chance for an easy double play and Tinker's sacrifice fly, brought the runs in this inning.

Miller's triple and Butler's single gave the Reds a run in the second. With the bases full, Corey doubled in the fifth and McCarthy's sacrifice fly followed, resulting in two more. Butler's walk and out and Camnitz's single gave them another in the eighth. Frome was effective with men on bases.

Change in Plans Give Ritchie Championship

Had Willie Ritchie taken a trip to Australia that had practically been arranged for him by me last year," says Tom Andrews, who probably would not be lightweight champion of America.

"After Ritchie made his great fight with Freddy Welsh at Los Angeles, even though he lost the decision, having substituted for Ad Wolgast on short notice, it was evident that he had the makings of a star. He made the trip east and had several fights about the middle west. It was then that I began negotiating with Willie to make a tour of Australia for Hugh McIntosh. The proposition looked good to him, and he wrote back saying that he would like to go and that he would soon be in Chicago to complete arrangements for the trip. Later on Willie matched up with Joe Mandor at New Orleans. That was in June, but instead of getting to Chicago and fixing up for the anticipated fight, he was called back to California. He was still considering the Australian trip when Jim Corbitt began to talk about a match with Ad Wolgast for the championship. That settled it. Willie remained, and then he hooked up with Billy Nolan, who had so successfully handled Battling Nelson when he was champion. Ritchie won and his fortune was made.

"Gee, I might have been one of the challengers," remarked Willie during his stay in Milwaukee the past week, "if I had taken that trip to Australia, and I might never have gotten the title. Of course, I had every confidence in my own ability, but I was out for the title and the prize broke just right for me. You know it was the merest chance that I got the bout with Freddy Welsh when Ad Wolgast was operated on. There were other boys who might have been substituted, but the chance came to me and that was my first start up the ladder. After holding Welsh for a while, even I knew I had nothing to fear from any lightweight, and when I fought Ad for the championship, I think I was just as confident as he was. There was only one drawback to our fight: I would have preferred to win straight with-out a foul. At that, Wolgast is a great fighter and will defeat most of the lightweights today. I understand that Pat Brown, a newcomer from Minnesota, is a fine young lightweight, but I never saw him in action and cannot give any opinion. Joe Rivera is also a good boy, but I feel confident of defeating any one of them. I hope to make a trip to Australia some of these days, but not in search of a title, as would have been the case had I gone last July. I surely must be thankful for having passed up the offer at that time."

FINALS IN TENNIS CARDED FOR TODAY

NEW YORK, April 18.—New York and Philadelphia teams will play here tomorrow in the final match of the national court tennis championship in doubles. Jay Gould and W. H. T. Huhn, representing Philadelphia, today defeated Chase Sands and J. E. Lowell of New York in one match of the semifinal round. They won three straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2. In the other semifinal round, Payne Whitney and Milton S. Barber of New York won from George H. Brooke and Wilson Potter of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-4, 5-1.

ZOOZ SIGNED TO PLAY PUEBLO HERE TOMORROW

Some of the Zoo recruits will be tried out in tomorrow's practice engagement in the Coughlin yard, the locals taking on the Rex Athletic club of Pueblo at 2:45 o'clock. Tomorrow's lineup will contain only a few of the regulars of last season, for the Zooz will not start officially until the middle of next month.

Hasting will probably be on the hill tomorrow afternoon, with Dixon on the receiving end. Gail will be in center and Fowler on first, this quartet comprising the Zoo regulars now in town. It is likely that Fowler will be at third in the opener, with Long, formerly of the Robbins team, and Forrest Deal, a high school player, filling in the other position in the infield. Segar and Vernon are among the recruits who are likely to be tried out tomorrow.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, April 18.—Bullish domestic conditions in what were offset today by a bullish foreign situation, the result being a net upturn of 1/4 to 1/2. Corn finished 1/4 to 1/2 higher. Oats had a net gain of 1/4 to 1/2. And provisions, a net advance of 1/4 to 1/2.

Strength was shown by wheat from the start on the higher cables and the renewed talk of prospective exports, it being believed that European needs will soon be great. Rains in France and unfavorable crop news from parts of Russia gave strength to the foreign situation. The only variation in the uniformly enthusiastic views of the situation in this country came in the form of reports of Russian fly, chinch bugs and dry weather in the West. Kansas, but the effect on the market seemed to be small, the disturbances being confined to a narrow area.

So completely did the sentiment dominate the market that the effect was apparent in the parts of the country south of the Ohio river and in Oklahoma and Texas wheat is already so well along that it is pointed. Not only did the fact that grain shipments are now on through the Great Lakes check the bullish tendency of the market.

Primarily receipts of wheat were 32,000 bushels, against 35,000 a year ago. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equaled 350,000 bushels.

Corn displayed considerable strength on buying of importance. There was a fair eastern demand for cash corn. The chief offerings came from long on realizing sales, but these were scattered and many sellers later rebought on dips. Cuts showed strength in sympathy with the other grains.

Shorts were in the market for ribs and lard, and this hardened prices. Many of these covering today were representatives of foreign houses. There was also a fair investment demand.
